Industry Association - JEAS is a trade association for companies that manufacture, sell, and support anti-shoplifting systems. By liaising with government agencies and related industry groups, we work to promote sound management of the distribution industry and to play an industrial and social role in preventing delinquency and shoplifting committed by elderly people. In 2018, JEAS became an industry association for electronic product monitoring equipment and security cameras (No. 149). In partnership with members from face-recognition manufactures, security businesses, and retail support fields, we have grown into the only solution organization that promotes the prevention of store crimes, such as shoplifting, and the prevention of losses.
